

Mining

The Mining News in and Around Earlington

To show proper respect for a fellow workman, foreman, John Rule, had the Arnold mine closed down for half a day, so the miners could attend the funeral of two deceased workmen of that mine.

A new cemetery has been selected and set aside by the St. Bernard Mining Co., for the colored population here, which shows they take an interest in looking after the dead, as well as provide for the living.

Business agent Matt Ray, of the St. Bernard Mining Co., was south last week visiting Columbia, Tenn., and other points. He don't look for much improvement in business for some time.

Wiegner Y. Q. Walker called on Col. W. A. Toombs and crew to inspect and adjust the scale at No. 11, and they suspended and gave them a thorough cleaning and adjustment and left them in first class condition.

W. T. Slovin who has recently returned from a four year service in the United States Navy, is now among the tip force at No. 11 mine and as he is a willing young man to work. He will make a success.

As the St. Charles mine is rushed with orders quite a number from mines here have gone over there to work until business here shows an improvement. Every day work is now given them at the above named mine.

Leonard Doyle, one of the young men employed hauling slack at the coke works slipped one day last week and fell head first into one of the slack hoppers, but outside of coming out as black as the ace of spades received no injury as the elevating did not hurt him.

James Kelley, after a sojourn of a week or two here among friends and relatives, will return to Zeigler, Ills., where he has several children employed in and about the mine. It is like losing an old land mark to see him leave here as he was one of the pioneer miners of this place.

Foreman, Henry Wyatt can boast of the fact that he has been continually employed by the St. Bernard Mining Co., since the year 1877 when he commenced driving a mule in No. 11. mine. Few men here can boast of longer service for one company.

Rather strange indeed, that so strong a prohibitionist as our former townsman, W. L. Gordon, Jr., now manager of Zeigler mines in Illinois, would allow that place to vote in favor of retaining saloons. Some say the reason was that the foreign element among his miners would not stay without intoxicants. Better let them go and get a temperance class of laborers.

The Oak Hill mine, now in charge of John B. Brasher, started up with a few men last week, and rumor says that some non miner through mistake applied there for work and was turned down because he could not show a card.

A few days ago a just reprimand was given a gang of the Union Mine Worker's loafers at Madisonville, when they gathered around some colored men who were enroute to Wheatcroft to work in the mines there, by a minister of the gospel who heard ing the men being persuaded in an abusive and threatening manner, told the loafers, that it would be more manly and Christian like in them to try and secure work instead of using their influence to prevent the willing from doing so, when they had a chance.

City Weighman, John R. Evans attended fiscal court at Madisonville last week, and we think we can express the thanks of the miners of this county who sometimes drive out for recreation for the good influence he yielded in behalf of better county roads. A step in the right direction has been taken and may the good work continue.

Machinist M. Hanna, of this place is now manufacturing one of the large shaker screens for a coal company in Eastern Kentucky. These screens have become very popular and Mr. Hanna has gained quite a reputation in the manufacture of them.

Sam McGregor who was ruptured by a fall of slate in the mine sometime ago, has so far recovered as to be able, friends think, to move to the country soon, where it is thought his recovery will be more rapid, and he will soon be up again.

The great cry of organized labor is that they want higher wages, so they can provide better for their household and furnished some beverages for their families, yet over in Illinois they fail to use their surplus in that direction as was shown recently when one of the Union mines thus closed down. Five saloons at that place also closed their doors. So you can see where the saloons got their filthy lucre from.

The miners at the Hughes Jelico Coal Co., mine struck sometime ago. They were then notified by the company that their services would no longer be required and were ordered to vacate the company's houses, which were needed for men who would work. This they refused to do. Suit was then entered against them, and the circuit court has decided, being justly in favor of the operators or owners of the property.

Reports say that the mining force at Fox Run mine, had until the new foreman took charge, adapted for their own convenience the go as you please plan, go to work when they pleased quit the same way regardless of the wishes of the officials in charge. This condition of affairs has been changed under the new administration as quite a number found out, when they received their discharge for failing to show up at the proper time for work.

The examination of applicants for Assistant Mine Inspectors to be held at Frankfort this week. Under the supervision of Prof. Norwood and his able assistant, A. G. Spillman, is in good hands. These men not only have the theory, but possess a practical knowledge of the conditions and requirements of the mines throughout the state and are therefore competent to properly judge of the qualifications of the candidates and advise Gov. Willson of those worthy of appointment. As Western Kentucky is the greatest coal field in the state, one of these new inspectors should come from this end of the state, and where the fact is taken in consideration that the St. Bernard Mining Co., are the principal as well as the most successful coal operators, a selection from the many well qualified men they have in their employ would not be amiss, but just tribute to a company who have always shown a great interest in the safety of their mines for the protection of their employers. Such practical miners as Thos. Longstaff, John Rule, and many others in the employ of the above named Company would be good material to choose from.

PRESS MEETING WILL BE AT CERULEAN SPRINGS.

Kentucky Press Association Will Also Visit Mammoth Cave and Hopkinsville

Louisville, Ky., April 18.—Cerulean Springs was selected by the Executive Committee of the Kentucky Press Association as the place for the annual meeting of that body, and the week of June 15 was fixed as the date for the meeting. The junket will include trips to Hopkinsville and Mammoth Cave, where ample entertainment will be provided for those in attendance. Invitations were received from Henderson and Mammoth Cave, and after considerable good, humorous debate, it was decided to combine the invitations from Cerulean Spring and the cave. The meeting of the Executive Committee took place at the Seelbach this afternoon.

Committees to prepare for the meeting were appointed as follows: Arrangements, Henry Lawrence; chairman, W. A. Wilgus and T. C. Underwood; Banquet, E. A. Jonas; chairman and toastmaster, C. C. Givens; Program, E. Barry, chairman; H. A. Summers and Paul Moore; Entertainment, E. D. Schinick, chairman; E. C. Wood, Lanham and W. V. Richardson.

Several Thousand Men to be Given Work by the Railroad.

The railroads of Kentucky will in the next two weeks give employment to between 4,000 and 5,000 section men to be put to work repairing the damages wrought in the railroad beds by the winter rains and snows. The L. & N. railroad alone, which operates two thirds of all the mileage in the State, is prepared to double its section force for the work of spring repairing. This road will continue to give employment until probably 3,000 are put to work. The I. C. will use the second largest number of men perhaps 1,500. The Queen and Crescent will use about 1,000 and all the other roads about 500 each. The putting of so many men to work in the State will greatly reduce the number of unemployed.

National Baptist Convention to be Held at Lexington.

The change of the meeting of the 1908 session of the National Baptist Convention from New York to the beautiful proud, historic city of Lexington, Ky., was made March 26th by the executive board which met in Nashville, Tenn. The change will not interfere with the date, the time, the place or the extensive programme for the coming session of the National Baptist Sunday school congress of the young people Chataqua which is to be held in Jacksonville, Fla., beginning June 24 and continuing until June 29. Many prominent speeches will be present and take part.

TAFT WILL BE EASY WINNER.

Result of His Visit Through Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Kentucky.

ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME GIVEN HIM AT EVERY STOP.

Washington, April 22.—Reports from the middle west say Secretary Taft is regarded as certain of the Republican nomination for the presidency at the hands of the Chicago convention and of election in November, if the welcome that was extended to him during his recent tour in Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Kentucky is an indication.

Great receptions equaling those given a President and banquets at which were gathered the leading men in political and industrial life have been held and the Secretary of War has been repeatedly acclaimed as "our next President."

In Chicago, the center of the Cannon strength, he was kept busy during two days and the greater part of two nights in making speeches and receiving those who desired to shake his hand. What is said to have been the largest banquet in the history of the Hamilton Club, one of the most influential organizations in the West, was given in his honor. The Commercial Club, representative of Chicago's business life, gave him another great banquet at which he urged that the country take advantage of its trade opportunities in the Far East. In Omaha 2,500 voters of Nebraska, members of the McKinley Club, attended a banquet and heard him take Mr. Bryan to task for his part in the ratification of the Paris treaty by which the United States acquired the Philippines. At Council Bluffs prominent men came from every section of Iowa to hear him advocate the development of the country's waterways. At every one of these great banquets he was given an ovation. At no one of them was there a note of antagonism.

The welcome was not only extended by the prominent men and leaders of opinion in the states through which he passed, but by delegations of working men. At Columbus he was waited upon by fifty representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors. At Chicago he was invited to speak to 500 of them at the Masonic Temple. At Omaha and Council Bluffs other delegations of railway employees meet him, shook hands and asked questions regarding his attitude toward union labor.

So favorable was the impression the Secretary created among these men that George Huntley, chief of the Toledo division of the conductors, who made an address at the White House two years ago when a committee of twenty-one railway men waited upon the President to explain their attitude toward railway legislation, declared that the sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of the Secretary's nomination.

"There has been some criticism of Mr. Taft's injunction decision, but that has been almost entirely removed by a better understanding of his real attitude toward us," said Mr. Huntley. "We know that he merely construed the law as he found it. He was on the bench to judge cases according to the laws that had been placed on the statute books by Congress. We believe he is the strongest man mentioned for the Republican nomination and we shall stand by him when nominated. He is a big broad, fair minded man. We like him."

Similar sentiments were expressed by many others during the trip. The President's popularity in the West has not waned and many of the laboring men expressed the belief that Mr. Taft's nomination would assure a continuance of the President's policies and his friendly spirit toward them.

On the train along the line of route the word was flashed by telegraph operators that the Secretary of war was coming. As a result of this, at many of the stops crowds were outside to shake his hand, hear his voice and see his expansive smile.

In Chicago a delegation of prominent colored men waited upon him, one of them an alternate to the Chicago convention from the first Illinois district, instructed in his favor. They greeted him decidedly pleasantly and promised their hearty support for both the nomination and election.

In Ohio Gov. Harris stated that Secretary Taft as the nominee there would be no doubt of the Republican party carrying the state next November; that the stories of factional differences put out in the East had been greatly exaggerated; that the opposition led by Senator Foraker had not been left with the slightest ground to stand on and that a united party in the state led by Mr. Taft would be sure to roll up the largest majority in the history of the state.

That Secretary Taft is strongly backed by the temperance and church elements in the Middle West is evidenced by the reception and banquet tendered him by the united church organizations at the Auditorium in Chicago. Several thousands of people attended this and another mammoth reception to the general public the following day at the Hamilton club.

During his entire stay in Chicago many political conferences were held, but no attempt was made to do any work in the state which Speaker Cannon is a favorite son. However, the rousing welcome given Mr. Taft indicated the strength he will have among the voters of the state if nominated.

National Committeeman Snyder, of Nebraska, expressed the opinion that with Secretary Taft as the nominee there would be no doubt of the Republican party carrying the state against Mr. Bryan. He said Mr. Taft would be the strongest man the party could nominate, that every state west of the Mississippi was in his favor and would send delegates to the convention instructed for him. Practically the same statement was vouched for by National Committeemen Hart, of Iowa, who said every national committeeman west of the Mississippi river would favor Mr. Taft.

Revival.

A Revival at the General Baptist church will be held in Earlington, Ky., by Rev. J. F. Bumpass, of Dixon, Ky., to begin on Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, before the first Sunday in May 1908. The church and preacher invite all to attend and enjoy an old fashioned revival meeting.

The best investment a home merchant can make is to advertise in "THE BEE."

TAFT FORCES ARE GAINING.

Prospects for War Secretary to Win are Becoming Rosy.

NEARLY HALF OF ALL DELEGATES ARE FOR TAFT.

Columbus, O., April 20.—The following statement was issued Saturday at the Taft national headquarters here, covering the delegates selected to the Republican national convention up to and including April 17th:

"Since the last tabulation was issued from this office 126 delegates have been chosen to the Republican national convention. Of this number 78 were elected in the favorite son states—61 in Pennsylvania, 10 in New York and four in Illinois. The Pennsylvania delegates were not instructed as they were chosen at direct primaries. However, all the delegates elected are said to be avowed supporters of Senator Knox and therefore they are classified as instructed for Pennsylvania's favorite son. The 10 delegates chosen in New York were instructed for Gov. Hughes. Two of the delegates chosen in Illinois were instructed for Speaker Cannon and two were uninstructed.

"Forty-eight delegates were chosen in open territory, or states not having favorite sons. Of these 48, 36 were instructed for Secretary Taft. Of the 12 uninstructed at least 4 have publicly declared their intention to vote for Secretary Taft.

"Secretary Taft may thus be credited with 40 out of 48 delegates elected during the past week in open territory.

"Minnesota contributed 20 of the instructed Taft delegates—four delegates-at-large and 16 district delegates, Michigan elected four, Missouri two, and Maryland two.

"The uninstructed delegates outside favorite son territory are two from Hawaii, two from Louisiana, two from Maryland and six from Massachusetts. The two from Louisiana will be contested.

"In all, 542 delegates have now been chosen to the national convention, representing 27 states, one territory and three insular possessions. Of this total 267 have been instructed for Secretary Taft, 68 are uninstructed and 207 are instructed for other candidates as follows: 44 in Illinois for Cannon, 30 in Indiana for Mr. Fairbanks, 44 in New York for Mr. Hughes, 64 in Pennsylvania for Mr. Knox and 25 in Wisconsin for Mr. LaFollette.

"Of the 68 uninstructed delegates more than one-third have publicly declared their intentions of voting for Secretary Taft.

"Secretary Taft has 229 delegates instructed for him outside of Ohio, the 229 delegates representing 21 states, one territory and one insular possession.

"Of the 256 delegates in favorite sons' states outside of Ohio, 232 have been elected, 207 of whom have been instructed for the candidates of those states, 20 are uninstructed and five have been instructed for Secretary Taft—two in New York, two in Illinois and one in Wisconsin.

"The seats of 46 delegates are contested—eight in Alabama, eight in Florida, two in Kentucky, two in Mississippi, six in Missouri, two in Ohio, four in Oklahoma and 14 in Tennessee."

In Louisiana, later conventions will be held by that portion of the party which is recognized on the state ballot.

In the Tennessee contests, only Taft delegates are involved.

All Missouri contests are in the city of St. Louis.

The "uninstructed" Virginia delegates were elected under instructions which practically direct them to recognize the action of the state convention. The state convention instructed for Taft.

While the Massachusetts delegates-at-large are uninstructed, the state convention passed a resolution declaring that a majority of the delegates are for Taft.

Two of the uninstructed New York delegates have declared their intention to vote for Taft.

The Wisconsin and Pennsylvania delegates were elected at Primaries and declared their choice for president, therefore are classed as "instructed."

More than one-third of the 68 uninstructed New York delegates have publicly declared their purpose of voting for Secretary Taft.

KLUB KENTUCK MINSTRELS

Show to a Crowded House at Temple Theatre Tuesday Night.

ONE OF THE BEST LOCAL TALENT SHOWS EVER PUT ON HERE.

There never was a more surprised audience of amusement seekers than those who attended the minstrel Tuesday night given by the Klub Kentucky boys. It was decidedly the best home talent affair ever given in Earlington, a great deal of credit indeed is due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Harry P. Murphy who managed the minstrel which brought forth such applause. As an appreciation of his services the boys presented Mr. Murphy with a handsome silver loving cup, the inside of which was lined with gold.

The program as printed and arranged was carried out as successfully as it possibly could have been, each performer acting his part well, not a hitch in the program from start to finish.

The dancing far eclipsed any in minstrelsy here this season, the applause being so great that the light-toed old-fashioned "nigger" break down dancers could hardly find an opportunity to cease.

The singing—well, it was the best ever—from the solos to the sweet melodious Klub Kentucky Quartette, Messrs. Frank D. Rash, L. L. Goodloe, Geo. Robinson and Edwin C. Cunningham. The continued applause given these sweet singers of Israel fully proved that the people of Earlington are proud of them.

A pretty part of the arrangement was the beautiful colors displayed—orange and black—the Klub Kentucky colors. Indeed this was a tasty arrangement and reflects great credit on the originator.

Frankly, this minstrel deserves praise, far more than has been given in this write-up, and the writer sincerely believes that every one who saw the performance will readily pronounce our statement true.

PLEA FOR BATTLESHIPS.

President, in Special Message, Asks for Four New Ones.

Washington, April 15.—With a view to forcing the direct issue as to whether his naval program for four new battleships should go by the board, as threatened, President Roosevelt sent a stirring message to congress Tuesday afternoon in advocacy of his plan. The delivery was so timed it would reach the house before a vote could be taken on the battleship provision in the naval appropriation bill, at present under consideration.

"To provide for but one or two battleships a year," he says, "is to provide that this nation, instead of advancing, shall go backwards in naval rank and relative power among the great nations. Such a course would be unwise for us if we fronted merely on one ocean, and it is doubly unwise when we front on two oceans. As chief executive of the nation, and as commander-in-chief of the navy there is imposed upon me the solemn responsibility of advising the congress of the measures vitally necessary to secure the peace and welfare of the republic in the event of international complications which are even remotely possible.

"Having in view this solemn responsibility, I earnestly advise that the congress now provide four battleships of the most advanced type.

"I can not too emphatically say that this is a measure of peace and not of war," he continued. "I can conceive of no circumstance under which this republic would enter into an aggressive war. Yet our undefended wealth invites aggression."

Speaking of arbitration treaties, he said:

"It is mischievous folly for any statesman to assume that this word has yet reached the stage when a nation can rely for peace upon the forbearance of other persons."

ONE SLAIN, FOUR DYING, IN DUEL.

Foes Meet and Open Fire, Wounding Bystanders.

Bernica, La., April 21.—One spectator killed and five others wounded Monday during a street duel here. Both duellists were wounded, but not seriously. The fight was between C. J. Morton and F. J. Barham, prominent in this section. The cause of their quarrel is not known.

Morton was just stepping off an Arkansas Southern passenger train, accompanied by his wife and 7-year-old son, when Barham appeared, armed. Morton was carrying a repeating shotgun.

Both men opened fire and Morton's little boy fell, probably fatally wounded; T. W. Clarke was instantly killed and Thomas Rivers was wounded in the thigh. Conductor Alford of the train and a male passenger, whose name was not learned, were mortally wounded. Morton was hit twice by his adversary's bullets and Barham was struck once.

A. J. Blanche of Covington, La., was probably fatally wounded while seated in the smoking car. Clem Barham assisted his father in the shooting.

TWO BROTHERS DROWNED.

Bodies Found in Pond After Night of Carousal.

Mount Carmel, Ill., April 20.—The bodies of Lawrence and Charles Hillman, brothers, who lived in Mount Carmel, were found Sunday in a pond a few miles south of here, near the Wabash river, and the surroundings indicated that they were drowned Saturday night. The two men were members of a party which took a launch and went to Crawleyville, Ind., to secure liquor, this county being under local option law.

When the party returned after a carousal, the two Hillmans were missing and it was reported that they had started a row in the launch and had been put out. John Hillman, a brother of the two, found their bodies in the pond, locked in each other's arms.

Proposed Laws Opposed.

Washington, April 20.—With this keynote, "Our members do not protest against organizations of labor and capital, when for the purpose of peaceful and lawful benefit to its members, but trespass upon the rights or attempted control of affairs of other free citizens must not and will not be permitted," the Citizens' Industrial associations of America object to a rearrangement of the Sherman anti-trust law and to any anti-injunction legislation by congress in a petition sent to Vice-President Fairbanks and Speaker Cannon Sunday.

High School Principal Attacked.

Manhattan, Kas., April 20.—W. W. Hutton, principal of the high school here and a well-known educator, was waylaid by three men, beaten into insensibility, robbed and thrown under the wheels of a train Saturday night, and was rescued after one leg had been cut off. The robbery occurred in the Union Pacific railroad yards, through which Prof. Hutton was passing on his way home. The robbers escaped in the darkness, leaving no clew.

Virgen Woman Commits Suicide.

Virgen, Ill., April 21.—Miss Estella Hudson, 28 years old, committed suicide here Monday by taking arsenic.

Easter was a red letter day for W. W. Kington, between 600 and 800 hundred people visited his mine. He will probably call it White City. The L. & N. R. R. Co., furnished him two gondolas and he made two trips before dinner and two after dinner. Those who went in the forenoon took baskets and had dinner on the ground. Mr. Kington is nearly ready to install his machinery. Some of it is here now, his boilers and shakers are already put in. He certainly has fine openings out there, one on the north, one on the south. His coal will be tipped over one tippie. We extend our thanks to Mr. Kington for the trip and wish him well.

ST. CHARLES.

Mr. Rex McEuen spent Sunday here with his father.

Mr. Wm. Higginbottom made his usual pleasure trip to Earlington Sunday.

Jas. Ferguson made a business trip to Earlington Monday.

Mr. Albert Jones, of Central City, spent Monday in the city with friends.

Mr. Geo. W. Wilson has returned from a visit to his family in Hopkinsville.

Mr. Joe Masely who has been seriously ill for the past week is better.

Gen. Manager Frank D. Rash inspected the mines at Fox Run Monday.

Ex-Judge John H. Martin made a trip to Madisonville Monday to settle up the affairs of his recent Judgeship.

Mr. Geo. Fuller and family from Earlington have moved to the city and we extend to them a hearty welcome.

Mr. Wash Travis the bustling news dealer of Earlington was in the city Monday on business.

D. D. Woodruff has been appointed city Judge by Gov. Willson and his commission has arrived, this is a good selection and the town is to be congratulation on this appointment.

Mr. C. H. Coffman, of Hanson station, spent Sunday in the city with friends.

Misses Addie Todd and Laura Woodruff have accepted positions with the St. Bernard store and will prove a drawing card for Mr. McEuen during the busy season this spring.

Mr. Geo. King and wife and Miss Willie Jenkins are spending the week in Louisville, where they are attending the commencement exercises of the school of Pharmacy, where his two sons, Norris and Gilbert, will graduate this week.

The fine horse belonging to Dr. Curry became frightened at the depot last Friday and run away tearing the buggy and throwing out the doctor who escaped without any injuries, except a few bruises.

A large crowd of our citizens with their wives attended a banquet given by Mr. J. V. McEuen in the rear of the store Friday night to celebrate the opening of his large and elegant spring goods. Never before in St. Charles was there such a up-to-date line of goods to select from.

The scoundrel who broke into the Company store did not receive much money for his pains as Joe Leange with usual good judgement has removed the receipts of the Post office the evening before which was about $2.30. "An idle mind is the devil's workshop" and as there is several lazy men who hung around town without any visible means of support and are not too good to break in to any place where there is a chance to get money without working for it.

Mr. Ilev Lane and Thos. Denton have started an ice wagon and will supply the city with that necessary article this summer.

An interesting letter from Col. Robt. Wood who is spending a month in Washington, Ind., says that he is in good health and having a nice visit.

Mr. Geo. C. Abbott, the pastor of the Episcopal Church at Hopkinsville, help communion for the members of that church at the residence of Jno. B. Atkinson Thursday morning.

Mr. N. I. Toomb's new business house is now completed and is ready for occupants. It is not known yet who will get it. He has had several offers, but has accepted none yet.

Easter Sunday dawned bright and beautiful, just the kind of a day to bring forth new hats and suits which were on all sides in evidence. Walking and driving was the order of the day and all who were able to be out took advantage of the opportunity.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, liver complaint, torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultant, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley, of Springfield, M. D.; of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D. of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D. of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D. of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others, especially eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that has any such "professional endorsement" worth more than a "number of ordinary testimonials." On the publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ELEPHANT TAKES IN CITY

KILLS A WOMAN AND INJURES THREE MEN BEFORE BEING ROUNDED UP.

EXPLOSION STAMPEDES HERD

One Man Lies Fatally Burned as Result of Fire at Standard Oil Storage Tanks in Riverside, Cal.

Riverside, Cal., April 17.—As a result of a fire which started early Thursday afternoon at the Standard Oil Co.'s storage tanks, a herd of elephants was stampeded, L. J. Worsley lies at the city hospital fatally burned, and Miss Ella Gibbs, a church deaconess, is dead. A sudden boom, which was heard at 12:30, marked the explosion of the large oil tank. Worsley was a driver of the delivery wagon from which the fire was communicated to the tanks, and was hurled many yards from the spot and was picked up with his clothing ablaze. The flames spread immediately to the tanks, which instantly became a mass of flames.

A circus three blocks distant was about to open for the afternoon performance. The explosion and the fire caused the showmen to lower the tents after dispersing the crowd, which had assembled. The herd of elephants became uncontrollable and they dashed to the east side of the town, knocking down fences, out-houses and despoiling orchards that lay in their path. Many persons narrowly escaped the infuriated animals. In a short time, however, all but the largest of the elephants was rounded up.

Leader Heads for City.

The leader of the herd then changed his course and entered the center of the city, one mile distant. He entered the court of the Glenwood hotel, one of the famous hostleries of the coast. Miss Gibbs was in the yard in front of the house. The elephant pinned her against the house between his tusks, threw her to the ground and trampled upon her, crushing her chest so that she died at 10 o'clock Thursday night. The animal then proceeded to the doorway, the guests running, panic-stricken, indoors. D. P. Chapman, a guest of the house, attempted to swerve the animal from the court. He was knocked down and had several ribs broken and otherwise injured. The beast crashed through the door, walked through the barber shop and out on the main street, then crossed the street and crashed through the heavy plate glass window in a store. Before being rounded up at a downtown public stable, the animal trampled on another man and seriously gored him with his tusks.

One of the keepers attempted to subdue the animal, but was hurled over a high fence, sustaining painful injuries. Not until four other elephants were brought to the stable was the huge beast gotten under control and taken to the circus grounds.

HUGHES CAMPAIGN OPENED.

Gen. Woodford Speaks in Louisville in Interest of the Governor.

Louisville, April 17.—The formal opening of the Hughes campaign, which has been quietly gathering way in Kentucky for some time, came Thursday night, when Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, former United States minister to Spain, delivered an address at Liederkranz hall in the interest of the governor of New York.

The hall was well filled and the audience an enthusiastic one. Gen. Woodford devoted his address almost entirely to the political situation and the chances for election of the various candidates. His points in favor of Gov. Hughes apparently found favor. Gov. Willson, who attended the meeting, was called on for a speech, but contented himself with the significant statement that he thought Kentucky should emulate the Missourians in naming her delegates to the national convention and insist on "being shown." His words were generally understood as indicating that he favored an uninstructed delegation.

MANY BRIDGES OUT.

Heavy Rains Cause Great Property Loss in Texas.

Houston, Tex., April 17.—Owing to the heavy rains during the past 24 hours, Pine Island Bayou overflowed its banks at Voth, Tex., Thursday, washing away 150 feet of the Texas & New Orleans railroad bridge at that point. The Santa Fe bridge, four miles below Voth, on the same stream, is reported washed away, and a temporary bridge on the Beaumont, Sour Lake & Western railroad, over Trinity river, is said to be in danger of going out. One million feet of logs belonging to the Keith Lumber Co. have been washed down Pine Island Bayou and scattered. The county bridge at Voth has also been washed out. Several miles of the Gulf & Interstate railroad tracks have been swept away and the service temporarily abandoned. The East Texas Lumber Co. is also a heavy loser in logs.

"Organized Virtue since the beginning has been stronger than Organized Vice."

Hecla Presbyterian

The Hecla Presbyterian church was built and dedicated in the summer and autumn of 1900. The work and organization dating back several years. The beginning of the church was quite prosperous, there being in the neighborhood of twenty five active members, which number has since dwindled to a scant half a dozen. A few of the original members are dead, but most of them have left here to make their homes in other places.

At present no minister is in charge of the work. Rev. G. T. Thompson was the first pastor, being succeeded by S. R. Crockett who left last June for another field.

PLENTY OF PROOF.

From People you Know—From Earlington Citizens.

The greatest skeptic can hardly fail to be convinced in the face of evidence like this. It is impossible to produce better proof of merit than the testimony of residents of Earlington, of people who can be seen at any time. Read the following case of it:

J. C. Oldham, living on Sebree St., Earlington, Ky., says: "I am glad to say a good word in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy came to my notice when my wife was troubled with a very aggravating case of kidney complaint and I produced them for her at the St. Bernard Mining Co., drug department. She had doctored and used many remedies but found no relief from a very lame back, and the secretions from her kidneys were irregular and contained a dark sediment. It caused her great pain to stoop after sitting and she was also greatly troubled with dizzy spells. Her health was in a much run down condition and she felt miserable when she began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. After finishing the contents of three boxes her system was restored to its natural condition all the pains had vanished and she enjoyed better health than before in years. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all other sufferers of kidney complaint." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Agents Foster-Mulburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agent for the United States.

Judge Who Decided Fish-Harriman Illinois Central Dispute.

Chicago.—Judge Farlin Q. Ball, who dissolved the injunction restraining E. H. Harriman and others from voting the proxies of the Union Pacific and the Railroad Securities company at the annual meeting of the Illinois Central Railway company, is a veteran of the civil war. He volunteered just after he had graduated from the University of Wisconsin and served to the finish, when he was discharged with the rank of major. He then settled in Danes county, Wis., and in 1895 was elected to the superior court bench. He has decided many important cases, among others the dispute between Chicago and its traction companies. In that case he held that the city had the right to regulate street car fares, and that the companies were obliged to grant universal transfers from one line to any of the others for a single fare. He is an acknowledged authority on banking and real estate law. He has been president of the Chicago Bar association and of the Chicago Law Institute, and attorney for the west park board and the town of Cicero. He is just 70 years of age, but is a well-preserved man with a military bearing.

INDIAN PEACE MEDAL.

One of Seven Presented by President Madison to Chiefs.

Kansas City, Mo.—Nearly 100 years ago—1809 it was—James Madison, fourth president of the United States, made a treaty with seven Indian tribes that dwelt northwest of the Ohio river, in the heart of the wilderness. To each of the chiefs of these tribes, including the Delaware, the Pottawatomie and the Miami clans, the Great Father in Washington sent a token of the compact signed between them. The offering of the chief executive was a heavy silver medal, of fine workmanship, bearing on one side a raised bust of the president and on the other a design of a pair of clasped hands, beneath the crossed pipes of the white man and the red man—emblems of everlasting peace and friendship.

The medals were worn with much pride, doubtless, by the seven warriors so signally honored, then handed to succeeding generations and finally were mislaid or lost. So far as is known only one has ever been heard from by the United States government since that time. It is owned by a Rosedale, Kan., man, Corwin S. Curtis, proprietor of a woodworking factory and machine shop at 1718 Kansas City Avenue, in that city. Mr. Curtis has taken his medal to the national mint in Philadelphia and compared it with the bronze original there.

"The superintendent of the mint told me the medal is genuine and that it is the only one of the seven ever returned there," said Mr. Curtis a few days ago. "I have had the medal since 1868 and have refused to part with it for $1,000."

The medal in his possession is nearly three inches in diameter and is one-eighth of an inch in thickness.

NOTICE.

On account of the unsanitary condition of the town of Earlington, the Board of Health of this city hereby warn YOU that YOUR premises MUST be cleaned; all rubbish and filth must be removed or destroyed, pools of stagnant water drained, and all outhouses put in good condition. Use plenty of lime or other disinfectants. Do not empty your slop where it will run under your neighbor's house or become offensive to yourself.

Keep your house and lot clean and you will not be so apt to contract typhoid fever or other infectious diseases, and your drug bill will be very much less. Do not ignore this notice, but attend to the matter AT ONCE, as this is important for your health and that of your family depends upon it.

Mrs. Mafaha Winn, of Empire was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Eliza Campbell, Sunday.

Ben Campbell and Harry Hamilton went to Madisonville Friday.

Quarterly Conference at M. E. church Sunday was a success. Rev. Irvin preached a good sermon morning and evening.

Mrs. Mary Fisher, Earlington, was the guest of Mrs. Lizzie Brewer.

E. Vaughn and daughter, Mattie, spent Easter in Eddyville.

Mrs. Nancy Jones gave to the Sunday School a treat. After an enjoyable hunt for Easter eggs, cream sherbet and cake was served.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, cases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

THE YEARS BETWEEN

By Erschel Records

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The dying firelight from the grate cast flickering, ghostly shadows over the cozy room. Alice Chandler sat gazing into its depths, battling with a vague unrest and discontent at things in general.

Ten years had passed since Paul Merrill had written telling of his love for her, and asking that she might come to her for his answer. "If there is hope for me, just a word from you and I shall come," he had said; "but if not, I would spare you the pain such an answer would inflict on your gentle heart. If you cannot care for me, silence shall be my answer."

These words burned themselves into her soul, even before she pondered the simple words which meant so much to both:

"Dearest: Come. And may your coming bring into your life and mine supreme joy."

She gave the precious missive to her father, as he started to his office that morning, and she, fanned by the breeze, had understood its significance; for he kissed her with unusual tenderness, and slipped the note into his inner pocket.

She awaited his coming with confidence, for they had long been lovers, and his coming meant the consummation of their secret hopes.

As the days wore on and he did not come, she began to wonder; and when she learned that he had left suddenly, without a word of explanation or farewell, she summoned all the pride of her nature to meet the curious, well-meaning questions of friends. And it was a cause for thankfulness, she felt, that her own father never suspected the misery that lay hidden deep down in her heart, through the weeks, and months, and years.

Now, as she reviewed the emptiness of the years since he had gone, she wondered, dully, how she had endured it all.

Suddenly, impelled by an impulse she could not resist, she rose and went into her father's room. Through tear-dimmed eyes, she saw that everything was just as he had left it; and now, after the first bitterness which the shock of his death had brought to her, she could almost feel his presence, as she touched lovingly, reverently, his belongings, and the garments he had worn.

She became absorbed in her work, as she went through his wardrobe, planning the disposal of the various garments. For she felt that it was showing more respect to her precious dead to give those garments where they would bring warmth and comfort than to hoard them selfishly.

She went through the well-worn pockets tenderly, carefully, that she might not miss some token or treasure she should prize. She was rewarded, for here she found his favorite pocket knife, the wonder of her childhood days; the knife that had fashioned many a wondrous toy. Again she came upon the worn purse which had always responded so generously to the growing demands of girlhood and young womanhood. So the pile of treasures grew; a memorandum book, letters, business and friendly; little things which revealed the personality of the man.

At length, in a neglected corner of the closet she lifted from its peg a faded coat which she viewed with some surprise. With difficulty she recalled it. He had not worn it for years. She remembered now the day, years ago, when he had come in shivering from the cold and had removed this coat for a warmer one.

"Strange," she mused, "how such trivial things will cling to the mind so distinctly. I remember it was the very day I sent that note to Paul."

With a strange premonition in her heart, she began to search feverishly through pocket after pocket; and at last she found, just as she knew she should, in the inner pocket, the note she had written then.

"Poor, poor father," she murmured. "And he wouldn't have caused me a minute's suffering for worlds."

Gradually her course became clear to her. "In fairness to both of us, he should have that which is his," she thought. She inclosed the note without a word of explanation, and forwarded it to him. If he was the same Paul, the one she had loved, he would understand. He would come to her. If not—

Well, she should be thankful, even if her idol, proving itself clay, were shattered; for then, perhaps, she should know the meaning of peace, though it were the peace of a broken heart.

Again, Alice Chandler sat before the grate, while the flames darted and played cheerfully, casting grotesque figures in the gathering twilight.

Not 24 hours had passed since she sent the message, and she was musing, half-bitterly, at the folly which prompted her to do it.

Even as she mused, she caught the sound of eager footsteps in the hall without. There was a rap at the door and Paul, the same impetuous boy as of old, was entering, without waiting to be announced.

She was face to face with him; her Paul, not the other, the phantom of her doubting brain.

"You?" she found voice to say gladly, half-incredulously.

"Alice, darling, you doubted me," he reproached her. As he spoke, he drew her close to him. "You should have known I would have come."

The Really Educated Man.
Peabody: He is educated who is master of himself and of his task.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run down nerves and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that tried Dr. Shoop's restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of experience and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day.

Pain, anywhere, can be quickly stopped by one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Pain always means congestion—unnatural blood pressure. Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablet simply coaxes congested blood away from pain centers. These Tablets—known by druggists as Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—simply equalize the blood circulation and then pain always departs in 20 Tablets 25 cents. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., for free package.

A MATTER OF INSPIRATION

Mr. Bullwinkle tapped his bell for a stenographer and one came in. Oh, but she was a vision, with her hair marcelled to distraction, her eyes full of tender sympathy and her little mouth like a honeysuckle in bee time. Mr. Bullwinkle, lifting his face from his desk, gave such a look of astonishment that she murmured:
"Did Mr. Cooley engage you?"
"Yes, sir."

The old man registered a mental note to have a talk with Mr. Cooley on this subject, the office of Bullwinkle & Cooley being a busy place and affording no time for charms.

"What's your name?" he asked.
"Miss Rose."
"Yes, yes; but Rose what?"
"That's my last name—Rose."
"Oh, Rose. Did you take Miss Doughface's place, do you know?"
"No, sir. She's still here."
"Still here. Very well. Please take a letter."

He picked up a letter from his desk and scowled at it horribly, suddenly turning to Miss Rose and saying:
"Messrs. Smoothface & Punchett, Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs:—"

As she wrote her stenographic notes the old man's eyes fell on her. Her cheeks were very rosy, and as she looked down at her note book she seemed to be (as Charles Reade says), all eyelashes.

"Dear Sirs—" he repeated.
Her hands were small; wee little hands, pink little hands, and well manicured. As she held her pencil her little finger was curved around in a ridiculously feminine fashion.

"Dear sir, replying to you—er—" She had a watch upon her bosom and a bracelet on her arm. The watch ticked away everlastingly. "Look at me, look at me, look at me," and the bracelet whispered into the ear of observing man: "Isn't this a pretty arm?"

"Replying to your favor of the 15th instant, we—er—"

The old man stopped, put the letter down, looked at Miss Rose over his spectacles and growled:
"I wish you'd send Miss Doughface in!"

Miss Rose went out; heartbroken was her glance, and in came Miss Doughface and sat down in the chair. The old man turned and looked at her, and in a loud voice cried:
"Messrs. Smoothface & Punchett, Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs: Replying to your favor of the 15th, we wish to say that we are disgusted at your method of doing business. You have broken your promised delivery four times now, and we will have no more of it. Upon receipt of this letter we want you to telegraph us whether the order has yet been shipped, and unless we receive such a telegram we shall take such steps as seem best to us. To cancel the order alone would afford us too little satisfaction under the circumstances, and we shall consider it our duty to the trade to enter suit for the damages which your conduct has caused us, as a warning to others what they may expect at your hands. Yours, etc."

He picked up another letter from his desk and read it over with a smile. "Write that letter that I gave you at once, Miss Doughface," he said, "and ask Miss Rose to come in."
In came Miss Rose, lovelier than ever, and as she sat down the old man beamed on her and said:
"Messrs. William B. Chase & Co., Pittsburg, Pa.—Dear Sirs: We beg to acknowledge, with our best thanks receipt of your valued order of yesterday. We have entered this for immediate attention, and we shall do our best to ship it well in advance of our promised delivery. Again thanking you, and with the writer's kindest regards to Mr. Chase, we are, yours sincerely."

As she finished her notes she looked up and caught his eye. He smiled encouragement upon her and picked up another letter.

This letter he read to himself slowly, and the further he read the more he scowled. It was evident here was a letter that called for a severe and caustic answer, and in an ominous voice, Mr. Bullwinkle cried:
"Send Miss Doughface in!"

Easy to Trace Origin of Words.
Velvet takes its name from the Italian "velluto," shaggy, offering in this respect a parallel with "satin," which comes from the Latin "seta," a bristle. As a rule, it is safe to guess that the name of a dress material comes from some place. Besides such obvious cases as "astrakan," "cashmere" and "tweed," there are "fustian," from Fustat (Cairo); "muslin," from Mosul in Mesopotamia; "damask," from Damascus, and "cambric," from Cambrai—while "millinery" itself is from Milan. The case of "silk" is a curious one. It is "sericum," the stuff obtained from the Seres or Chinese, but these people seem to have been named in ancient Greek after the Chinese word for a silk worm.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars to any case it fails to cure. TWICE CURED OF SKIN TROUBLES

First Case a Rash Which Itched and Stung—Threatened Ten Years Later With Blood-Poison in Leg—But Both Times the Sufferer's

RELIANCE IN CUTICURA PROVED WELL-FOUNDED

"About twelve or fifteen years ago, while living in West Virginia, I had a breaking-out, and it itched and stung so badly that I could not have any peace because of it. I saw three doctors and they did not agree on what it was, so one of them gave me something that he called medicine, but I called it soda water. I might just as well have washed in rain-water. Then I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent and began to get better right away. They cured me and I have not been bothered with the itching since, to amount to anything. About two years ago I had in grippe and pneumonia which left me with a pain in my side. Treatment ran it into my leg, which then swelled and began to break out. It got in pretty bad shape, so I went to a doctor. He was afraid it would turn to blood-poison. I used his medicine but it did no good. So I sent for another set of the Cuticura Remedies. I used them three times and cured the breaking-out on my leg. Now I won't be without Cuticura. J. F. Hennen, R. F. D. 3, Milan, Mo., May 13, 1907."

ALL IN THEIR OWN HANDS.

One Reason for Success of Gilbert and Sullivan Operas.

At a complimentary dinner given to Sir William S. Gilbert at the Savoy hotel, London, the guest, in responding to the toast of his health, described himself as "an idle singer of an empty day," and made a striking reference to his copartnership with Sir A. Sullivan: "During our regime at the Savoy my distinguished coworker and myself invariably exercised the most absolute and undisputed control over the production of our pieces. By arrangement with our excellent impresario, D'Oyley Carte, we selected our own cast; we directed our rehearsals in every detail. We superintended the modeling of the scenery, the designing of the dresses. Our company was always admirably in hand, the best possible feeling existed between them and ourselves, and, speaking for my share of the result, I can truthfully say that the impression conveyed to the audience was almost invariably a reflex of my conception. To few authors indeed has such absolute control been accorded, and it is to that absolute control that I attribute a large measure of the success that those pieces achieved on their original production."

That Fishing Feeling.

"I've got the fishing feeling so bad," he said, "that I just must throw down everything and take a two weeks' trip to Florida. I'll pack my grip right now!"

"John," said his wife, "come here." She opened a closet. A gallon jug stood before him.

"There!" she said. "Cut out the Florida trip. It's too expensive."

"Maria," he said, "you're a wonder."—Atlanta Constitution.

CHELSEA OLD CHURCH.

London Edifice of Many Historic Memories Has Lost Its Pastor.

London.—The death of Rev. R. H. Davies has left the Chelsea Old Church pastorless. Now some zealous young curate will be sought whose eloquence will attract congregations to this almost deserted place of worship.

For 53 years Mr. Davies preached in a little sanctuary, at first to congregations as large as the place would hold, then, as the glories of Chelsea departed and the old families died or went to more fashionable precincts, to a mere handful of people. The Old Church—it has been known thus for centuries—seldom shows any signs of life except when there are services.

It was in this church that Charles Kingsley worshiped, and he and Mr. Davies were close friends. So dearly did Mr. Davies love the old place that he would not allow plaster or whitewash to touch its walls, and the repairs made during his time were only those absolutely necessary to keep it from destruction.

In the nave of the church are kept the chained books. They were once fastened to a desk, but have now been placed on a high shelf with their ancient chains still clinging to them. The books comprise a "Vinegar Bible," Fox's "Book of Martyrs" and a desk prayer book.

The Old Church has seen some magnificent ceremonies, notably the funeral of Lord Bray. It was here, too, that Henry VIII. came in state the day after Anne Boleyn's execution to wed Jane Seymour.

NEW SENATOR FROM KENTUCKY.

Ex-Gov. Bradley Elected, Breaking Long Deadlock.

Frankfort, Ky.—Former Gov. William O'Connell Bradley, Republican, was recently elected United States senator to serve six years from March 4, 1909, when the term of James B. McCreary will expire.

The final ballot was the twentieth taken in an effort to break the deadlock which developed on January 15 between the Beckham and Bradley forces. Bradley's election was accomplished by a number of Democrats going over to him.

Senator-elect Bradley is a native Kentuckian. He was born in 1847 near Lancaster, and has long made his home in Louisville. He has been a power in Republican politics in Kentucky since 1865 when, though he was only 18 years old, he was admitted to the practice of law by a special act of the state legislature. He at once allied himself with the party of Lincoln and won honors from his fellows.

He is the only Republican who was ever elected governor of Kentucky. In 1896 he was endorsed by his state for the presidential nomination, but his claims were not pushed before the convention. In 1895 Mr. Bradley was elected governor of Kentucky, and served one term. The new senator is a civil war veteran, having run away from home in 1862 to join the union army.

Makeup of French Families.

The number of French families, that is to say households with or without children, is estimated at 11,315,000. Of this total 1,804,720 families have no children, 2,966,171 have one child, 2,651,978 have two children, 1,643,425 have three, 987,392 have four, 566,768 have five, 327,241 have six, 182,998 have seven, 94,729 have eight, 44,728 have nine, 20,639 have ten, 8,305 have eleven, 3,508 have twelve, 1,437 have thirteen, 554 have fourteen, 249 have fifteen, 79 have sixteen, 34 have seventeen and finally 45 families have eighteen or more.—Republique Francaise.

RYAN FORCES QUIT
DEFEATED IN FIGHT FOR NEW YORK DELEGATION.
CONTEST LASTED TWO DAYS
Platform Calls Upon Democracy of the Country to Send Strongest Men to Denver in July.

New York, April 16.—State Senator H. McCarren, leader of the Kings County Democracy, was unseated Wednesday night as a delegate to the city's state convention in Carnegie hall to select representatives to the Denver national convention, after a bitter contest before the committee on credentials.
Followers of W. J. Bryan who advocated the adoption by the Democratic state convention of a resolution favoring his candidacy surrendered after defeat before the resolutions committee. Augustus Thomas, the playwright, a close friend of the Nebraskan, announced the surrender in this statement:
"Mr. Bryan's friends, after a general view of the field and the conditions, have decided that there is already such a lack of harmony in the convention that they are unwilling to introduce another question on which there might be a division, even when that question is one so amiable as to whether delegates should be instructed or not. This is also the attitude of the minority of the committee on resolutions."

The business for which the convention assembled, the selection of delegates to the national convention, the nomination of presidential electors and the adoption of a platform was almost forgotten in the excitement over the McCarren contest.
After the settlement of the McCarren and other contests, the convention proceeded with its task and named delegates and electors and adopted a platform. The platform in part reads as follows:

The Platform.
"We hold that Democratic traditions, bound up as they are, with much that is greatest in the history of the country, require that national conventions should be gatherings of the best intellect and ripest judgment and the most unselfish patriotism; a party for the purpose of studying the needs and striving for the welfare of the country at large.
"And therefore, we, representing the party in the greatest state of the Union, a state whose electoral vote is essential to Democratic victory, with animosity or hostility for any candidate and animated only by devotion to the principles of the party, call upon the Democracy of the country to send to Denver in July next, unswayed, unfettered and uninstructed, the ablest, strongest and most representative men, to the end that out of deliberation and consultation of such men, there may be then and there nominated a ticket which will rally to its support, the judgment, conscience and vote of a majority of the citizens of the country."
Walter B. Parker, New York; Charles Murphy, New York; Lewis Nixon, New York, and Charles Froeh, Brooklyn, were chosen delegates-at-large. Alternates were also elected and the selections of the various districts effected.

Old Baseball Reporter Dead.
New York, April 16.—John H. Mangrove, for 20 years the head of the sporting department of the Sun, died here, aged 50 years. He had been in the employ of the Sun for 23 years, having begun as an office boy. He had become an expert baseball reporter and is said to have originated what has become to be known as the statistical story of the game. A widow survives.

SKIN THE COMPLEXION OVER NIGHT
Pimples, Rash, Blotches, Eruptions, Etc., Quickly Eradicated by New Skin Remedy.

Since the discovery of "A. J. M." PRESCRIPTION, the new skin remedy, it has, in its extraordinary accomplishments, exceeded the sanguine expectations of the dispensers who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of skin eruptions and disfigurements of years' standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative powers at the very outset.
In less serious skin affections, such as Rash, Blotches, Pimples, Blackheads, Barber Itch, Red Nose, Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, Oozed Feet, results show after a few applications, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. A muddy, greasy or sallow complexion is noticeable after a single application. Those who use "A. J. M." PRESCRIPTION can get it in 50 cts. $1 bottles, (the one-dollar size holds three times the amount of the fifty cent size) at all leading drug stores. Write The A. J. Martin Medicine Co., Toledo, Ohio, for free testimonials.

WETS AND DRY SWAP COUNTIES

ILLINOIS SALOONS HOLD THEIR OWN AT THE POLLS.

SCHUYLER CHANGES SIDES

About Forty Bars Are Knocked Out at Elections in One Hundred Towns—Cook County Honors About Even.

Chicago, April 22.—Illinois took another shy at demon rum Tuesday in various township elections, with the result that about forty additional saloons were put out of business. Otherwise the battle appears to be drawn, for the gains and losses, as far as districts are concerned, seem to be about even. Jasper county went into the totally dry column. Saint Marie, with five saloons, the only wet spot in the county, electing a board of trustees pledged to close them up.

On the other hand, Schuyler county shifts from the dry to the wet column. This is due to the fact that Rushville, which for 20 years has barred out saloons, this time voted for license. It will be the only town in the county tolerating saloons.

Still Has 35 Dry Counties.
Net results show that the state still has 35 counties absolutely dry. In many localities the county is dry with the exception of one or two spots. Olge county made an extraordinary effort to get into the dry column by wiping out the saloons in Foreston and Adeline, the sole wet spots in the county, but the liquor interests won. Adeline has one saloon. Foreston has none at present, but one will be installed immediately.

In Logan county New Holland was the only town voting on the license question, and the drys won by a majority of two votes. Winona was the only city in Marshall county voting, and license was not an issue. In Mac county Maroa elected an anti-license board. The county is now entirely dry. In Douglas county Arcola voted to continue dry.

Effingham Is Dry.
Effingham, in Effingham county, went dry after a most bitter fight. This puts 12 saloons out of business. It was the first time in its history that Effingham voted on the saloon question. In the same county Altamont went wet by 32 votes, retaining five saloons. Deltrich, in the same county, voted by a majority of 14 to retain its four dramshops.

In Kane county, Hampshire, Elburn and West Dundee, the only villages voting, went wet. The saloons have a tie in the Elgin city council, but have no difficulty in obtaining license. In Dupage county, Naperville went dry, disposing of 10 saloons. In Kankakee county Reddick, the only village voting, went wet. In Marion county the saloons were not an issue. Meredosia was the only place in Morgan county voting on option and it went wet. It is the only wet precinct in the county.

Honors Even in Cook.
In many Cook county towns which voted on the question honors were about even. In nearly all cases the township went wet, while the towns voted dry. In Will county, Peotone went wet by 36. Wilmington voted to continue saloons by a majority of 99. There are five saloons in Peotone and seven in Wilmington. The vote was the largest ever cast.

TWO INJURED IN RACE.
Driver of Auto Racing Against Pony Lost Control of Machine.

Chicago, April 22.—A race between an automobile and a boy mounted on a pony Tuesday night resulted in the wrecking of the machine and the serious injury of its owner, Prof. John H. Jones of Northwestern university, and his chauffeur, John Anderson. The men were going north in Sheridan road, when they were challenged to a race by the boy. In attempting to round a corner Anderson lost control of the automobile and it crashed into a fence and overturned. Prof. Jones and Anderson each suffered a broken arm and numerous bruises. The identity of the boy who rode the pony was not learned.

SENATOR FROM IOWA

ALLISON CELEBRATES SEVENTY-NINTH BIRTHDAY.

Colleagues in Congress Unite in Extending Congratulations — Was Once Very Near Republican Nomination for Presidency.

Washington.—Senator William Boyd Allison of Iowa recently celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday, and his colleagues, both Republicans and Democrats, united in extending their congratulations, for few members are more popular than the aged Iowan.

Senator Allison has broken all previous records for length of service and attained a maximum degree of personal influence and unusual domination of public affairs. He is the leader of the senate of the United States, with all that this leadership means in power and ability to create and control legislation. It is said, and probably with truth, that there is more of Senator Allison's influence and character written into the statute books to-day than of either President Roosevelt or Speaker Cannon, both of whom are considered to have contributed an unusual share to the lawmaking of the present generation.

Senator Allison's personal history, briefly told, is that he was born in Perry, O., on March 2, 1829, and after attending Western Reserve college studied law and practiced in Ohio until 1857, when he removed to Iowa. His entry into national politics came with his election to the Thirty-eighth congress.

On occasions Senator Allison has been very near to the nomination of his party for the presidency, some believe much nearer than Thomas B. Reed, Roscoe Conkling, or even John Sherman. He would have undoubtedly made a good president, the equal of many and the superior of some, had the fortune of politics turned his way.

During the progress of financial legislation in the present congress he has been often consulted and, as the ranking member of the senate committee on finance, has taken a quiet and unostentatious but conservative and helpful part in the framing of legislation which will relieve the country from the conditions which resulted in the panic of 1907.

Senator Allison is the author of the internal revenue law of 1868, the essential features of which are still in force. Prior to its passage the tax on distilled spirits was two dollars a gallon and the revenue therefrom about $14,000,000, while during the first year following the passage of the Allison act the tax, while reduced to 75 cents, amounted, through the elimination of frauds and its proper collection, to $36,000,000.

He was chairman of a special committee which spent the summer of 1874 investigating the government of the District of Columbia. The bill drawn by him as a result of this work repealed existing laws and created the present form of government, with three commissioners appointed by the president.

Early in 1877 a bill was passed by the house of representatives for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. There was great clamor for the enactment of the measure in the senate. The bill was referred to the senate committee on finance and, being aware that if the senate was called upon to divide on the question of free coinage it would follow the popular agitation, Senator Allison proposed the preservation of the gold standard, but at the same time made provision for a limited coinage of silver on government account.

CONGRESSIONAL

The McCall campaign publicity bill was unanimously reported to the house for passage by the committee on the election of president, vice president and representatives in congress. Though introduced by a Republican, the report had the undivided support of the minority members of the committee and of the National Publicity association.

Although several hours were consumed in roll calls, the day in the house was one of comparative activity and several measures of importance were put through. The principal of these perhaps was the resolution by Speaker Cannon providing for an investigation of the paper trust and, in pursuance of its provisions, the speaker announced as the committee of six who will conduct the investigation, Messrs. Mann (Ill.), Miller (Kas.), Stafford (Wis.), Bannon (O.), Sims (Tenn.) and Ryan (N. Y.). The Democrats as a unit voted against the resolution after the declaration by Mr. Williams that he did not believe a sincere effort would be made to arrive at the truth. Another measure passed was one in which importers generally are interested and which practically creates the board of general appraisers at New York, a trial court in matters pertaining to customs duties, appeals therefrom to be taken to the circuit court of appeals instead of the circuit court as heretofore.

Calling attention to the Grand Army button he wore on the lapel of his coat and insisting that he had no prejudice against negro soldiers, some of whom he claimed as comrades, Senator Warner of Missouri in the senate Tuesday declared his conviction that the town of Brownsville, Tex., had been shot up by negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth infantry in 1906. Mr. Warner quoted extensively from the testimony taken in the Brownsville case and presented an argument to sustain his belief in the guilt of the negro soldiers. Without concluding his remarks, which he will resume Wednesday, Mr. Warner gave way for the naval appropriation bill, which was read in part. An amendment was adopted making the 20 per cent increase in the pay of officers apply to those retired as well as on the active list. In connection with the consideration of the naval bill, the senate entered into a long discussion of the policy of sending the naval fleet around the world. This policy was sharply criticised by Senator Bacon.

MERCY HOSPITAL BURNED.
All of Sisters of Mercy and Patients Escaped Uninjured.

Big Rapids, Mich., April 22.—Fire Tuesday afternoon destroyed Mercy hospital here, $75,000 establishment erected 28 years ago. All of the patients and the 40 Sisters of Mercy, who were in the building escaped without injury. There were when the fire broke out but 25 or 30 patients in the institution, an unusually small number. Starting apparently from a defective chimney, the fire was first discovered near the roof. It spread rapidly, but there was time enough to remove carefully all of the patients. The structure was destroyed, except for a small addition.

To Extradite Russian Chadwick.
New York, April 22.—A warrant for the extradition of Mme. Olga Stein, wanted in St. Petersburg, Russia, on charges of forgery and larceny, was received Tuesday by United States Marshal Henkel from the state department at Washington. The warrant directs that Mme. Stein be placed aboard the steamer Kherson, which sails Wednesday for Libau, Russia. Mme. Stein was arrested here several weeks ago at the instance of Russian consular officers, who described her as the "Russian Cassie Chadwick."

Prisoner Subdued with Chloroform.
New Haven, Conn., April 22.—William Shaven stood at the bar in the supreme court Tuesday, awaiting sentence for burglary on seven counts, when he developed maniacal tendencies. For half an hour he fought the deputy sheriffs and court officers and was only subdued after chloroform had been administered by a surgeon. He was taken to a hospital while under the anesthetic, but upon regaining consciousness, he appeared to be mentally calm.

British Royalty in Denmark.
Copenhagen, April 22.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra arrived here Tuesday from London on a visit to the Danish royal family. They were welcomed by King Frederick and Queen Louise, the diplomatic corps and civil and military dignitaries. The streets through which their majesties drove to the palace were gayly decorated and crowded with people.

1,200 Begin Work.
New Castle, Pa., April 22.—Notice is posted here that the Shenango Valley steel plant, operated by the Carnegie Steel Co., will start in full operation Wednesday. The order affects 1,200 men.

Winter Weather in Italy.
Rome, April 22.—Intense cold prevails throughout Italy, snow having fallen in towns where the climate usually is very mild, such as Milan and Perugia.

THE COWBOY REVENGED

A very formal report to the commissioner of Indian affairs at Washington tells in a few colorless words how an Apache who murdered a cowboy in New Mexico was meted out punishment by his own race. This is the story, but not in the language of the report:

I.—HUNGER.

Death broods over the Mescalero reservation. The coyotes, slender, famished, slink hopelessly through the chapparal to the tepee of Da-Ga-In-Ka, and just as hopelessly slink away again. There are no fresh bones behind the wickiup. It has been many sleeps since Da-Ga-In-Ka has tasted meat; not since the last beef killing, with its wanton waste and great feasting, at the agency.

Therefore Da-Ga-In-Ka's woman cowers as she puts before him the jar of cornmeal porridge. The stomach of a warrior craves flesh. And who is Da-Ga-In-Ka, that he should eat the food of women and children and of the craven white man who humbles himself at labor like a squaw? Yet he must endure the close-fisted bounty of the paleface, for now the Apaches are almost civilized and live on the land the white man has allotted them.

Bah! The Great Spirit feeds the eagle. He will feed Da-Ga-In-Ka.

II.—THE COWBOY.

At the ranch the superintendent goes over his tally of the "beef critters" again. Yes, three are missing. The white man counts even the grains of corn and demeans himself to labor like a squaw. He has none of the traditions of a noble race.

"Jim, go out and try to round up them three steers. Like as not they're on the Mescalero."

A frolic this for Jim McLane, cowpuncher. Hurriedly gathering up a sack of rations from the mess shack he swings himself on his game little Pinto and tears away over the sand and the sage brush. An impetuous, wholesome young fellow is Jim, the most lighthearted of the lot. His bandanna neckcloth flutters jauntily as he rides.

Over on the edge of the Mescalero he meets Indians. The greetings exchanged are friendly. Steers? Yes, away over that way; saw them not far from Da-Ga-In-Ka's tepee. "Thanks. Have a cigarette." Friendly fellows, these Apaches. Nearly civilized.

III.—FRESH BLOOD.

Da-Ga-In-Ka's squaw shakes him by the shoulders. The brave grunts drowsily; he is so gorged with meat. She has seen something again, and this time it is a horseman. He has dismounted near the carcass of a steer which has been quartered. Nearer are the ashes of Da-Ga-In-Ka's campfire. Look, he is angry. He will complain to the agent. The agent will cast Da-Ga-In-Ka in the prison of the white man—Da-Ga-In-Ka, a proud sovereign of the arid plains.

IV.—BIG GAME.

They find Jim McLane lifeless near the quartered steer, which is to say, near Da-Ga-In-Ka's deserted tepee. The other Apaches are aghast. For the tribe is civilized—nearly. The white man's brows are black, and the blue in his eyes snaps like flint. "We want Da-Ga-In-Ka," the agent says.

Time was when this meant war paint. But the Apaches are getting civilized by degrees. The Mescalero has been defiled with savagery, and the white man who doles out the beef is angry.

Away! Find Da-Ga-In-Ka!

V.—ON THE BRINK OF REFUGE.

To the Apache braves the trail of Da-Ga-In-Ka across the desert is as plain as a post road. Ever on. Far ahead beyond the purple haze of distance toil the fugitive and his squaw. He is strong; he has eaten. He is stout of heart. The squaw is fresh, too. The ponies are weary. They have not eaten so much.

The little group enters the mountains. These are the Sacramento mountains. It is well. From the mountains Da-Ga-In-Ka can almost see the Rio Grande. Mexico is his goal.

VI.—THE LAST STAND.

Here is a cavalcade coming up the pass. So close? It is the pursuit. Da-Ga-In-Ka sees they are Apaches. The fire of his forefathers is in the fugitive. He faces them with his cherished old Winchester in hand. "Come back to the Mescalero," shouts the leader.

"Brothers, go your way. I will go mine." This is the sullen answer.

The column moves again, forward. The hunted savage gazes at his brethren fixedly. Then, with the suppleness of a snake he slips from his blanket, drops to his knees and puts the cool butt of his rifle to his swarthy cheek. He sings the war song of the Apaches.

Behind him crouches his squaw trembling. This is because she is a woman, and fears the white man who can turn the redskin against his kind. The Winchester begins barking merrily, and a shower of ejected shells rattles to the ground. Back from the trail comes the echo of the war song, and a volley that tears a cloud of splinters off the crag.

It is soon over. Jim McLane is avenged, and a wrinkled, ugly squaw is wailing over her dead. Da-Ga-In-Ka is literally riddled with bullets. They say the Mescalero Apaches are becoming civilized.

The Belmont Changes Hands.

James W. Pritchett, of Dawsale was made on Tuesday, con-

POOR OLD BIDDY MURPHY

She was so old and so poor and so wrinkled and so persistently pleading that, although most of the passersby hardly gave her a glance, a few of the more sympathetic paused long enough to drop a coin into her hand. The Busy Girl, who was hurrying to the office, looked at her with pity in her eyes, but quickly turned her head away and walked on with an air of determination. That little gleam of compassion, however, was not lost by the old woman. She saw it and followed, talking volubly, with a soft blarney in her voice, until the girl wavered and finally stopped.

"I am very sorry, but I have nothing for you," the girl said, firmly.

"I'm that cold, darlin', I do be shiv-erin' in all my bones. If I only had a nickel to get a drop of hot coffee to warm me insides, it's a happy woman I'd be."

"Do you live far from here?" the girl asked, weakening visibly.

"No, darlin', not so very far; right in this shreet, 320 West, in Mike Flaherty's tinmint. Ye see, I come over this way every mornin' to Father Malone's church. Shure, it's the only bit o' comfort I have. I never miss the sivilin' o'clock mass, glory be to God, an' if it's doubtin' me-character ye are, just ask Father Malone who Biddy Murphy is, an' he'll tell ye that she's the honestest woman in New York, but very poor an' too old to worruk anny more an' all alone by herself. Ah, wurrah," and here she rubbed her eyes with the mangy fringe of her shawl. "It's a hard world to be in whin ye're old an' poor."

The Busy Girl fumbled in an inner pocket of her coat and drew forth the nickel that had been stowed away for her homeward fare in case of accident.
The bony fingers closed over it and vanished with it beneath the depths of the shawl.

"Shure, I knew that such a nice lookin' young lady as yerself, asthore, wouldn't be for refusin' to help a poor old widdy woman. God bless ye, darlin'."

The Busy Girl walked to the office and arrived there late. As she removed her hat and coat she remarked to the boss:

"I broke my resolution this morning and gave my nickel to a beggar, but I don't think I have made a mistake this time, she was such a very old woman, with a good, kind face."

"Better ride and get to business on time," grumbled the boss.

For two months after this Biddy Murphy's brown fingers closed every morning over the Busy Girl's homeward nickel. The old woman always was ready to talk of herself and the Busy Girl soon learned that she subsisted chiefly on the charity of her neighbors and that of Father Malone, who, according to her assertion, "would be in heaven before the soles of his feet was cold," a reward which the good man no doubt richly merited, if only for his kindness to Biddy Murphy.

Then came a morning when Biddy was not at her corner. And the next morning she was not there, nor the next, nor the next, and even the boss began to show some anxiety, so when Sunday came the Busy Girl, not caring to venture to "Mike Flaherty's tin-mint," called at the modest rectory next door to Father Malone's church and asked if she could see that gentleman.

"He's busy in the church," said the boy who opened the door. "What do you want him for? Is it a marriage or a funeral or a baptism? Or," in a confidential whisper, "do you want to take the pledge?"

"I want to ask about a poor old woman called Biddy Murphy. I am afraid she is ill."

"Oh," said the boy, assuringly.
"You mean old Biddy Murphy that used to come to seven o'clock mass so reg'lar and that everybody used to help? Well, there was a fire where she lived an' after they got Biddy out she ran around screamin' 'Oh, my money! Oh, my little bit o' money!
Save my bed or I'll lose every penny I've got. It's all in there.' Then she knelt down in the street and prayed to all the saints to save her little bit o' money, and one of the firemen, Pat Daly, he went right through the flames an' smoke an' he pitched her old mattress outer der winder, an' didn't half a dozen bank books roll out of it, an' old Biddy she gathered 'em up an' she hugged 'em an' then she hugged Pat Daly, who came stag-gerin' out nearly choked to death, an' then she went away with Mrs. Flannigan, an' next day Mrs. Flannigan she came here an' told Father Malone that Biddy Murphy had money in every savin' bank in New York an' was a rich woman. An' then Father Malone he went an' gave it to her for fair for beggin' an' livin' on charity, an' he gave her beans from the pulpit, too; but Biddy, she didn't care a rap, she went to Philadelphia, where she has two married daughters an' ten grandchildren, an' she always sayn' she was a lone woman an' hadn't a soul in the world to care for her. In the newspapers they said she had $4,000.
What d'ye think of that?"

Four thousand dollars! The Busy Girl, who had no bank account, thought sadly of her little contributions to the fund, and, thanking the loquacious boy for his information, she murmured to herself half aloud
as she left the house:

"How shall I ever tell the boss?"

One of District Attorney Jerome's chief assistants in New York has a young son who occupies almost as much of his time as does the office business. "Just now," said the prosecutor, "I divide my leisure daylight between the menagerie in Central park and the Bronx zoo. While I always try to grant any reasonable request, there are times when I give up. The other day he wanted a lion, and I produced one. Then a monkey, and I lugged him into the monkey house.
The next demand was for an angel, and I quit. And I couldn't explain that in my business I wouldn't know an angel if I saw one."

MRS. "FIGHTING BOB" EVANS.

Wife of Rear Admiral Well Supplied with War-Like Relatives.

Washington.—Mad Mrs. Evans, wife of "Fighting Bob," been born a boy, she likely would have chosen a military or naval life.

Her father was a staunch union man,
although not a fighter; her brother, Harry Taylor, commanded the Indiana during the Spanish war; another brother is attached to the ordnance department at Washington; another, now dead, was a captain of artillery;
her son, Frank Evans, is in the navy;
her two daughters studied to be nurses for the Red Cross service, and

MRS. CHARLOTTE EVANS

her husband is the foremost fighting figure in this country to-day.

Her great-grandfather was Capt.
Daniel Morgan of revolutionary fame.

Mrs. Evans' maiden name was Charlotte Taylor. She was the sister of Evans' chum, and the sweetheart of his boyhood days. They were married in 1871. While their home is in Washington, owing to Mrs. Evans' wishes, they have lived much of their time at their cottage on the government reserve just outside the sea front at Port Munroe.

Mrs. Evans is a woman of culture and mistress of many accomplishments, not the least of which is playing hostess with charming grace.

She was born and reared in Washington in an atmosphere which fostered her inherent patriotism, a patriotism which prompted her to say to her only son, whom he chose the navy life, "God speed you. May you be as brave a sailor as your father."

Probably no woman in the world is so plentifully supplied with war-like relatives, and she glories in them all.

Mrs. Evans' father for years was the proprietor of a book store on Pennsylvania avenue, in Washington, a scholarly man, a lover of books and a keen student of human nature. He purchased the first bond issued by the government in connection with the civil war, and this bond, appropriately framed, is one of the dearest possessions of Mrs. Evans.

WOULD CHANGE OLD GLORY.

Philadelphian Submits Design Putting Stars in a Circle.

Washington.—The field of stars on the United States flag is becoming overcrowded with stellar emblems.
As new states are added the difficulty increases of placing the stars in a graceful manner on the field and still leave room for others to be added. A bill has therefore been introduced in congress to rearrange the stars so as Vogt's Flag Design.

to make it possible to add the stars from time to time without disturbing the general plan.

This idea has been anticipated by a private citizen, Henry Vogt, of Philadelphia, who has designed a flag for which the thanks of the war department have been extended.

Mr. Vogt would place the stars in a circle, with a keystone design in the center, leaving room for the addition of stars around the circle.

Request He Couldn't Grant.

ADOPTS A CHINESE GIRL.

St. Louis Millionaire to Raise Her as His Daughter.

St. Louis.—A poor Chinese girl probably will become a St. Louis society belle because Murray Carleton, millionaire dry-goods merchant, clubman and society man, has adopted her. She is a living monument to his dead daughter, whose name, Lexie Rust Carleton, she bears.

The story of Mr. Carleton's Chinese "daughter" has just been revealed by him at a meeting of the Young

LEXIE RUST
CARLETON

Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Centenary M. E. church, South.
Mourning the death nine years ago of his daughter, Lexie, Mr. Carleton shortly afterward was trying to devise a plan to perpetuate the memory of her in something real, live and tangible, when his attention was called to a little girl on the other side of the globe, just Lexie's age. He began, with the missionaries of that district of China, negotiations which culminated in his adoption of the girl under his dead daughter's name. The girl, then ten years old, was placed in the Susan B. Wilson school, at Sung Kong, and now, at the age of 19 years, is about to graduate.

Upon her graduation she will be given the choice of becoming Mr.
Carleton's American daughter, or remaining his Chinese daughter and becoming a missionary to her people.
She has announced her willingness to become a missionary, but Mr.
Carleton, who has never seen her, desires that, before deciding she shall visit America and become acquainted with her "American father" and the other members of her "American family"—Mr. Carleton's wife and their eight children.

Although Miss Lexie Rust Carleton of China and the Carletons of St.
Louis have never met, they know, from photographs, and from letters exchanged weekly, almost as much about each other as though she had been a member of the Carleton household all her life.

The case is already in the hands of the gossips and on all sides are being asked these questions: Will the smart set "accept" the Chinese girl socially?
Dare the smart set reject the adopted daughter of Murray Carleton, one of the foremost men, commercially and socially, in St. Louis?

AUTHORS FOND OF MAINE.

Many of National Prominence Have Homes in That State.

The coast of Maine appears to have a peculiar attractiveness for authors.
William Dean Howells, for example, has long had his summer home at Kittery Point, which is not far from Portland. His house is surrounded by a fine old garden, in which the veteran author may often be seen at work. His library is located in an old barn set in the midst of an apple orchard.

A little further up the coast, at York Harbor, is the summer home of Thomas Nelson Page. It is located on a high point near the sea. Here, too, comes John Fox every summer to be the guest of Mr. Page.

Still farther on, at Kennebunkport, is the home of Mrs. Margaret Deland, who lives in a charming old-fashioned house surrounded by a real New England garden. Mrs. Deland has been particularly successful in raising jonquills. In fact, she has had such a large crop the past summer that she held a public sale of them and gave the proceeds to charity. Meredith Nicholson, the Indiana novelist, also has a home at Kennebunkport.

Various authors live on the Maine islands that stud the beautiful harbor of Portland. The best known is Mrs.
Mara Louise Burnham, whose home is on Bailey's island. On another island, not far away, lives Commander Garry.—Saturday Evening Post.
